I used to stare into apartment nine to catch my neighbor naked one time I'd wait for hours as if someday sometime but they tore her building down for a subway line I'd take the subway past the metro towers to see the office girls at rush hour I saw a face there I can still see now but the subway's gone, they tear it down every time so come on call me! there's still time we've waited in some long, long lines and we could be the one thing left on main street I've seen the faces on the party lines familiar places, I've got mine I'd trade 'em all to see you one more time better get it now they tear it down every time so come on call me! there's still time we waited in some long long lines and we could be the one thing left on main street who'll deny those days? we'd just stand around in every vow that we'd made who'll deny those days? we'd just stand around in every vow that we'd made so I, yeah I,

I'll never throw away every promise made those days so come on call me!
there's still time we waited in some long, long lines and we could be the one thing left on main street
