Lord Byron had a lot of luggage
He took it when he traveled far and wide
He didn't get to bathe very often
But he liked to change his clothes all the time

I had a little friend named Mr. Johnson
Who always tried to be like me
He rose to the heights of this profession
But he was hard on his friends and family

Still out here in the wind and rain
I look a little older but I feel no pain
And it stands to reason
I'm still lookin' for love, still lookin' for love

I went to the Henley Regatta
Intending to put out to sea
They pronounced me persona non grata
Goes to show that you can't come and go as you please

Still out here in the wind and rain
Look a little older but I feel no pain
Stands to reason, you know
Still lookin' for love, still lookin' for love
Still lookin' for love, I'm still lookin' for love

Lookin' for a needle in a haystack
It's a pretty hard to find
But every dog has his day, Jack
I'm still waitin' for mine

Still out here in the wind and rain
I look a little older but I feel no pain
Stands to reason
I'm still lookin' for love, still lookin' for love

Still out here in the wind and rain
A whole lot older but I feel no pain
Stands to reason, now
Still lookin' for love, still lookin' for love

Still lookin' for love

Still lookin' for love
Still lookin' for love
