The morning mist is slowly wraps it's arm around the bay
The city rubs it's tired eyes
The buildings are all empty and the sky's a shade of gray Sometimes I find it hard to see the sun We're wasting too much when we worry about the days Wonder where they go when they are done

With hope in our hearts
We'll pull through the night
With love in our eyes
The colors all seem so bright
If we open our hearts
We'll all be alright
With love in our eyes
The world's a beautiful sight

The windows are all open now a breeze is blowing in It's easy to forget the world outside
The trees are casting shadows in the woods behind the house
When we were young that's where we used to hide Sometimes we wanna climb those trees and never come down But we gotta get our feet back on the ground

With hope in our hearts
We'll pull through the night
With love in our eyes
The colors all seem so bright
If we open our hearts
We'll all be alright
With love in our eyes

The world's a beautiful sight

While we've been sleeping
So much has passed us by The world's still spinning
The morning sun will rise

With hope in our hearts
We'll pull through the night
With love in our eyes
The colors all seem so bright
If we open our hearts

With hope in our hearts
With love in our eyes
We open our hearts
Start living our lives

With hope in our hearts
With love in our eyes
We open our hearts
