Ladies and gentleman of the class of '98 people often ask me if I have any advice to offer and when they do, I tell them this:

If you're unsure about what you're going to do with your life

try to remember some of the most interesting people didn't know what they wanted to do at age 22 or even at 40, when nearly all of them are unemployed drug addicts forced to live on cat food.

Also understand that friends will come and go - this is because of your irritating personality - nobody likes you. So if the only thing getting

you

through the day is the misconception that people like you - end it now.

Learn how to smoke Winnie blues. If you're underage, get an older kid to buy them for you. Get to really know your parents - they're good for money.

Milk them, then put them in an old peoples home.
Travel as often as you can. Live in New York City once. Live in northern California once. Never live in Adelaide - it's a hole.

Maybe you'll marry. Maybe you won't.

Maybe you'll have children. Maybe you won't. If you do have children,

lock

them under the stairs.

Do one thing each day that scares you. Sing. Dance.
Jump in front of a car.

Do not trust anyone that tries to update Shakespeare for the kids. And if you see Quindon Tarver in the street - punch him in the face for me...

Brother and sister, we can be free.

If you're worried about the way you look, try to remember you're probably fatter than you think. Maybe you should consider an eating disorder.

Don't

worry too much about the future. If you're nervous about an exam, ring

up

the school at the scheduled time and make a bomb threat. If you're a girl,

lie about period pain just to get out of anything that you don't want to do. Cheat if you think you can get away with it.

Remember, someone with richer parents is getting private tuition.

Shoplift as often as you can. Shopping centres factor shop lifting into their prices so if you don't do it, it's like they're getting money for free. When you're on work experience, steal a cabcharge and take a taxi

to

Perth. Wear sunscreen, but only if its that coconut oil that gives you cancer. Keep your old love letters. If you see an old lover in the street,

try to run them over in your car. Don't mess too much with your hair, otherwise by the time you're 35, you'll look like Greg Matthews.

Remember

you can wear your underwear 4 times without washing:
forwards,

backwards,

inside out forwards, inside out backwards.

Brother and sister...

Congregate in gangs around train stations and shopping centres. It's a free

country. It's public space. Skateboard on war memorials. Smoke in your school uniform. Set off car alarms. Plant drugs on a teacher. Join a cult.

Spike drinks. Don't flush public toilets. Remember, only you will only

truly take care of you - so carry a concealed weapon.
Don't wear your P

plates. Walk around with your eyelids rolled back.
Touch you tongue on

the

tips of batteries. Be open to new love. Remember, you can't get pregnant

the first time you have sex. Expect others to support you. It's easy to get the dole - and still do cash in hand work. Respect your elders. When your grandmother dies have her stuffed. Be kind to your knees. You'll miss

when you're kneecapped by a loan shark. Get revenge.
Don't forgive

anyone

for anything. But most of all, don't aim too high - You're probably only

suited to an office or factory job.

And trust me on the Winnie blues
