All my thoughts start to gain speed
At several thousand feet of all the things I've seen
Of what my life even means
I've gathered all these things
Things that I can't keep

Well, I want to give this world motion
That could carry on when I'm gone

I want to see
I want to love (i want to believe)
I want to stand up strong when fire comes
And I want to be the man I'm meant to be
And give away all that I can't keep

When it rains late in the spring the pavement and the rain something moves in me
And it won't leave me alone
To what I'm living for
To what I want to be

I want to give this world motion
That could carry on when I'm gone

I want to see
I want to love (I want to believe)
I want to stand up strong when fire comes
And I want to be the man I'm meant to be
And run where I can't see
And give away all that I can't keep

All the waves inside of me
Are moving me to face the day
And give away what I can't keep
All these things that I can't keep
I want to see
I want to bleed
I want to love and find away

Believe the things that moved in me

I still believe

What moved in me

I still believe

What moved in me

I'll find a way
