Apathy, please don't call me up anymore
Because I'm tired of being chained lying on a cement floor
And I am reminded by these scars of regret inflicting
me
I could never see that this "me" in me is just not me
I could never tell that this "me" just isn't me.
And now the curtains opened and that "me" in me isn't me.
And I am reminded by these scars of regret inflicting
me
Could never see that this "me" in me is just not me
I could never tell that this "me" just isn't me.
