

Watashi-Wa "Miss Mudhole"

Visit "Miss Mudhole" on MotoLyrics.com

So these are our lives so many years and everyday is a new one a huge book still being written and I cant complain because I know that earth is just a little part and every time I turn around one day is gone and the next in front of me I cant count all your blessings and every pain I've grown from and all these years have gone by my life still growing, we're growing up these are our lives and now a ring of hope is glistening blessings falling on me all the time huge book still book being written and I cant complain because I know that earth is just a little part and every time I turn around one day is gone and the next in front of me I cant count all your blessings and every pain I've grown from and all these years have gone by my life still growing, we're growing up these are our lives

Visit Watashi-Wa page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.