Caught myself a smile today, as bright and big as a clown parade
Streamers floating in her eyes, son of God by her side Dip into a low-cut back I don't think I'll want to come back Something strange fills the room, soft voice brings me back too soon Says hey there man with the stare, can I help you to get yourself somewhere
I said please dance close to me
Please just dance close to me

'Cause I go on and on and on and on and on Nothing tells me something has gone wrong
You can't do that so do this from now on Just another thought don't mind me
Just another thought don't mind me - I'm still gone

Can I take you away from here, rub you down maybe dry your tears
I don't have to know your name, to one like me they're all the same Lie you down and talk real soft, let your dreams do what they want well bright eyed girl that sure sounds nice but my hearts been wrenched up in a vice There's a girl left way back there, who cries when she don't even care

I said please dance close to me
I said please just dance close to me

I go on and on and on and on and on Nothing tells me something has gone wrong
You can't do that so do this from now on
Just another thought don't mind me
Just another thought don't mind me - I'm still gone

Well since you don't want me let's hear about the one you need Something tells me her eyes are green, makes you feel about fifteen

Sounds pretty good for a start but let me tell you about her heart

Tells you she loves you with bedroom eyes, when you tell her that she only sighs

That's what I thought you would say, now may I please have your soul it's time to play

I said please dance close to me

I said please just dance close to me

'Cause I go on and on and on and on and on

Just another thought don't mind me

I'm Still Gone
