December is the coolest month
This time for once my cheeks are warm
After long years in the monkey house
I am ready for the storm

Let them throw all their cannonballs
Let all their strongmen come
I'm ready to go anywhere
Through venom, sick and scum

December isn't always cold
This year she's mine, I know why
Somewhere a flower has to grow
For every flower that dies

I'm stricken with fever
But my heart is strong as steel
I'm ready to go anywhere
I can believe, I can feel

December is a trusted friend
I always recognize her face
It's a plague of fool thrown aside forever
By her soft and silent grace

She is reckless as a Mayday
Gentle as a stone
She's ready to go anywhere
To carry me back home

December fell deep in the bleak
Winter time when Jesus Christ
Howled to save your baby's howl
Primal truth as pure as ice

And though we crucified him on a cross
And dragged his word from payer to curse
He was able to go anywhere
He was almost one of us
He was almost one of us

He's one of us
