

Phil Marshall

"Anna Lea"

Visit "Anna Lea" on MotoLyrics.com

Too young to be broken, too hot to be cold
And I hope when the snow falls you truly smile

Girl you had it hard, like nobody knows
But when I gave you my hand you couldn't give me your heart

And I'll stand by you,
Like an anchor on a boat
And when the storms blow through,
I'll be your ocean of cotton wool
And girl, I need you too, to be my lover well and my friend,
Oh Anna Lea

The radio plays, blue eyes and Elvis,
And I know you're loving, you're loving on me
Do you hear the birds? Can you see the hilltops?
Cause you need a daffodil like the first one in the spring

And I'll stand by you,
Like an anchor on a boat
And when the storms blow through,
I'll be your ocean of cotton wool
And girl, I need you too, to be my lover well and my
friend,
Oh Anna Lea,

So you, you come to my country from afar,
And you tell me you love me, wish on a star,
And you're already hoping that you'd mother my child
You deserve... to let it go, you troubled heart

So let him rest now, your memory, so you can be ready for family,
Anna Lea.

Visit Phil Marshall page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.
