There's a warmth in your eyes so far away
There's a place in my mind for you today
If you follow me down to the shore tonight
I'll show you a town, this town was right

There's a place in my mind like a bridge for shoes
I can cross anytime just to be with you

And it feels like I only got here yesterday
And it feels like I'll never see the sun again

There's a road up ahead that I think I'll take
It's a light by some dread, it's the road he made
If I follow you down this way again
Believe in that sound, it's awakened them

And it seems like we all just got here yesterday
In between here and somewhere else

Rain on the world down there, I can only smile
Rain anywhere, just not here, just not here

There's a warmth in your eyes so far away
There's a place in my mind for you today
So far away, so far away, so far away
