When it was dark above the ground
Heat from below was all they found
Standing here for all these years
If a statue could shed stone tears

Why they fight, no one knows
They're all too young, long time ago
Standing here for all these years
If a statue could shed stone tears

Peace by day, bullets by night
Their ancient walls protect them now

No one feels the heat from the earth
Their minds are at war, feet full of nerves
And soldiers stare at the figures so tall, born into war
If a statue could shed stone tears

Peace by day, bullets by night
Their ancient walls protect them now
Their ancient walls, their ancient walls

Their ancient walls
(If a statue could shed stone tears)
Their ancient walls
(If a statue could shed stone tears)
Their ancient walls
