Just a kid with a song when he wandered from home in search of the phantom of fame
She promised she'd wait but he got back too late Just a scene from the dark side of fame
In the wrong frame of mind he took to the wine Holding pieces of love's broken chain
It was colder than jade in this world that he'd made All alone on the dark side of fame
His songs were soon curled on the lips of the world
They earned him the highest of claim And yet his greatest desire was the simple warmth of love's fire
Cause it's cold on the dark side of fame
The wine took its toll and soon he grew old much younger than most people do But there's no trace of shame in the sound of his name Though he lived on the dark side of fame he lived on the dark side of fame
