Words come easy like the wind, when you're sorry
But you're only sorry when you want me back again
And the love that used to be, still lives in my memory,
Words come easy, for you but not for me.

You've forgotten long ago, how to be true
And you're sorry, when each new love tires of you
You come running back to see, if there's still a chance with me
And you stay just long enough to know there is.

Words come easy like the wind, when you're sorry
But you're only sorry when you want me back again
And the love that used to be, still lives in my memory,
Words come easy, for you but not for me...
