She said that she needed somebody
She wants to find a reason to live
She found him falling to pieces
She said she had something to give

So they dance...with no music behind them
They laugh...their troubles away
And they cry...as they dream together
And they lay...and watch meteors fall

He found something he could hold onto Someone he could understand
She was everything that he wanted
She was someone who he could not have

And they dance...with no music behind them
They laugh...their troubles away
And they cry...as they dream together
And they lay...and watch meteors fall
And watch meteors fall
Fall...

Through all of their lives, they never knew
How easy it could be
Until he looked into her eyes
They knew it was best to walk away
From this simple twist of fate
Go on with their lives
And, never forget...

When they danced...with no music behind them
They laugh...their troubles away
And they cry...as they dream together
And they lay...and watch meteors fall
Fall...
And watch meteors fall
Fall...

Fall... (x6)
