How many see you soon can you whisper
In the ear of a lover, before you break me?
You waste your lips on that cigarette
Should I be jealous? Yeah,
I really shouldn't care
Oh, but I care
And how many promises should be broken
Before I should believe you're out to hurt me?
You waste your breath on excuses
But that courtesy reduces us to
Nothing more than casual friends

But I'll be as still, you can't shake me
So how long should I wait till you break me?
Over the river and through the woods
To the edge

And how many arguments did you instigate
For a secret ??? that you might hate me
And how many lonely hours were spent
Before the magic came and went for you?
And I dropped the ball when you threw it
I wasn't looking up and you knew it
When you hit me square on the chest

How long should I guess till you break me
Over the river and through the woods
To the edge

And how many times can you ask for
The ????? and still want more before I fill you?
You waste your arms on abuses
But my memory refuses to capture
Tainted thoughts of you

But I'll lie as still till you wake me
How long should I wait till you shake me?
Over the river and through the woods
To the edge

Over the river and through the woods
To the edge
