Today is just another day I went looking for you,

every street corner every little thing I do

Just another day, over my shoulder, and so far away another day older

Then I found you, just like that I swear, the wind shook the tree and tossed my hair, yeah I found you, in the open sky, in the darkest room, in each tear I cry

And the way it was and the way it is,

and the dreams I dream, and those eyes of his

and the smoke filled lungs and the laughter strong, I recollect these things, like an old jazz song

Yes I found you, just like that I swear, the wind shook
the tree and tossed my hair, yeah I found you, in the

And the days go by, tick tock the clock

I know you'll be here, on this path I walk

Today is just another day, I went looking for you,

Every street corner, every little thing I do

Then I found you, just like that I swear, the wind shook
the tree and tossed my hair, yeah I found you, in the
