Take me home to a place of solace and whisper by the river wish your cares away and pray find a friend there by the river
oh feel his grace, oh a warm embrace by the river can i take you there can i carry your load by the river wipe the tear from your eye as you laugh so hard you cry by the river

oh feel his grace, oh a warm embrace by the river

there's a place beside the river we meet at a time where summer has found its heat under trees that form a canopy look around you its a place to laugh and cry alot where your sins are forgiven and forgot say a prayer and sing a song just be yourself there with those around you

Oh feel his grace
Oh a warm embrace
By the river, By the river

and a time where the summer has found its heat under trees that form a canopy look around you

Say a prayer and sing a song and be yourself
with those around you

look around you, look around you, with those around you
