Two lonely strangers
Too many miles away
Fallin asleep to the same song
As the night comes over them
It takes them both away
To a place they've been for so long
And in the morning they wake up crying
Once again, this time was only a dream
And they'll spend the rest of their young lives trying
To meet as hard as it seems
Chorus:
They carry on the hard way
Life goes on despite the heartache
And you're wrong if you don't make
An effort to believe
Two lonely strangers
Approaching each other
With eyes for no other than they who they see at night
As he looks over, sees her feet past her shoulder
With eyes that could light up the night
Despite the thrill, there is something forming
Just like that, they were back in their sleep
With no words spoken
Their dream left broken
So they carry on as hard as it seems
Chorus
Two lonely strangers
Too many miles away
Falling asleep to the same song
As the night comes over them
It takes them both away
To a place they've been for so long
And in the morning they wake up crying
Once again, this time was only a dream
And they'll spend the rest of they're young lives trying
To meet as hard as it seems
Chorus
They carry on Life goes on
