The other night i had a crazy dream 'bout a man in a fishing hat selling magazines all the way from kingston he had worked his way down and i bought him this drink on the night they kicked him out of town
he said "you know i don't like the way i am you know i don't like the way i am, oh no" and i saw an old fisherman out swaying on the dock swinging a jug of something in the string of fish he had caught his wife had left him just a week before she packed up her bags and she waltzed on out the door and she said "you know i don't like the way i am you know i don't like the way i am" and then she cried right out loud she sang... you and me walked down the shores of our youth chasing the sunrise and challenging the truth it's all so distant now i've seen too many lies turning my vision into crumbling demise makes we want to say "i don't like the way i am you see i don't like the way i am i'm gonna change the way i am i'm gonna change the way i am, right now hear me crying out loud"... the other night i had this crazy dream 'bout a man in a fishing hat selling old magazines all the way from kingston he had worked his way down and i bought him a drink on the night they kicked him
out of town
he said just like this
but i'm gonna change the way i am yes i am, i'm gonna change the way i am" and he played the sweetest song for me on his squeeze box by the sea
