The night you met, it was a magic start
All the connections were made in your heart
Following you everywhere, you could feel her eyes
A glimpse of somebody takes you by surprise
Another place and day, now where's she gone?
You can't forget her face or things you left undone
Re-run memories from the start, the time has flown
All the time you've been apart and she's still in your heart
Try as you might the recollections stay
Like a photographic memory of each day
You can feel her by your side in an empty room
And words like forever you spoke too soon
Another place and day, now where's she gone
You can't forget her face or things you wish you'd done
Re-run memories from the start, the time has flown
Where's the ending and the start? Is she's still in your heart?
She's still in your heart
