Lately I've been looking at myself through naked eyes

Stripped of all my vanity, I see through my disguise

The boy that I once used to be, he left me long ago

And in his place there is a man that I don't even know

And I don't even know his name, but I love him just the same

It might just take all day, but if I let you, will you help me find my way?

(Chorus)

Can you feel the rain? It's falling down on me

Can you stop the pain? It's calling out, can you set me free?

I was all alone until you came around

Now I finally know the answer can be found, in the soul, I control

Lately I've been feeling that my life is at its end

Sometimes I'd do anything to find myself a friend

You're standing right in from of me, but I'm afraid to ask

At times it seems so easy to hide behind my mask

And if I don't know your name, will you love me just the same?

It might just take all day, but if I let you, will you help me find my way?

(Chorus
