"Wait For You"

Here we go, the same old story, you can't make up your mind

You want it all , but you can't have everything that you may find

But I feel the time's not right, you're too young to settle down

So I still by myself and wait for you to come around

(Chorus)

I can't explain why you're running away

I want you so bad, but there's nothing to say

I get so lonely I don't know what to do

So I spend my time just waiting for you

Once again you've got me hanging on the end of your little string

Though I try, my will's too weak to say anything

But my patience is wearing thin and the time is drawing near

To walk away and never look back and to never shed a tear

(Chorus)
