If I let you in my corner would you be on my side be the one who won't let me crawl in your pocket and hide your heart's like that billboard where the traffic jams downtown
says if you lived here now, you'd be home

If I call you my comfort, if I tell you my name Will you tell me to stand when I'm leaning again
I will share all my heart, but keep all my bones
If you lived here now you'd be home

I am learning to hold, I used to hold onto stand by me as I learn not to stand in you that love does not forget how far you got on your own
if you lived here now you'd be home

Where the heart lies Where do you go when you're going home

I've been following this bumper with a sticker saying how if this car was an F-14, I'd be home by now Got me thinking Blue Angels fly wing to wing all alone
If you lived here now you'd be home
