Somedays my life comes together then it all comes apart I am told I have ambition where I should have a heart I have something on a long rope swinging wide either way I don't know what's passing through from what's here to stay

I have quite a history of chasing after rainbows finding there's a thunderstorm at the other end
If I don't learn the first time
I won't learn the next time What God did not make cautious
He gave a lot of thread to mend

Chorus:
Someone read my mind out there Take my hopes and dreams and build me a prayer Can you find the words to the madness in my head I'm a little bit lost a little quietly led

These blue eyes they get grayer year after year
It sure ain't from lack of trying that no one got lost in here I am told that I try too hard it isn't lose or win and that no one can get lost if you're always rushing in (Chorus)

I think someone was lying when they called this world round It feels like one sharp corner and a long way down

You are taking my ambition when you're taking on my heart If you can really read my mind you know they do not come apart
