I was raised with the tv on on the young long lean and blonde beauty queens with high heels you've come a long way baby how does it feel are you proud to be living in the USA nothing beats a great pair of legs Be all you can be don't be more than an 8 stretch yourself out you're not the right shape

Chorus:

You're a little bit bigger you could be smaller you could be thinner if you could get taller just a little less make you a little more give you that little look you're looking for if you go out where they say go in it's a losing game you don't want to win

Little girls counting calories want to look like the ladies they see on tv you never know what your nature intended your natural shape has been suspended by diet soda and Dexatrim makes your hair fall out but at least you're thin what ever happened to a feminine line came between you And your Calvin Klein's (Chorus)

So say goodbye to the hourglass shape full-figure girls you're all out of shape I have learned not to care what the pictures say I was born with this body it won't go away I don't need a diet I would need a machine to look like the women in those magazines no one ever called me skin and bones I'm not a frame

I'm a finished home (Chorus)
