

West Indian Girl

"Again I've Written Tragedy"

Visit "Again I've Written Tragedy" on MotoLyrics.com

As you wish, I'll cut my wrists again
I'll do anything to see you smile
They say you see a light shine right before you die
I see that light everytime i look into your eyes
I always dreamed of a storybook romance
One where we could be so happy
But now I see that dreams will never come true
When everything that's wrong with me is all because of Its all because of you
Please don't do this, not now...i can't live without this lie
Again I've written tragedy in blood that will never dry
Two hearts beating as one, as one we are complete
But still, I'm willing to end your life
Even if it means killing me,killing me
Its all because of you (x2)
Please don't do this, not now...i can't live without this lie
Again I've written tragedy in blood that will never dry
In blood that will never dry
Two hearts beating as one, as one we are complete
But still, I'm willing to end your life
Even if it means killing me,killing me

Visit West Indian Girl page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.