In this city you hold on as tightly as you can
You don't take anything for truth It's like walking on a razor's edge and everything around is crumbling girl you only have to look around for proof

When I was a young boy things were different a man was allowed to be a man I grew up too fast like I was racing with the devil I've felt the blade so many times Emily Girl won't you take my hand and we'll ride

Across the barren face of this desert road Baby you set my wheels on fire I'll rev my engine till the sound is just deafening Emily baby I promise you We'll make it out of this wasteland

I know you worry the way thing will turn out it seems this city doesn't love the man with a beard they say a man has to give up the very thing he loves here
But I will not live like that i will not live in fear.

I will not let them take it from me no matter how hard they'll try Most men, when they have a knife to their chin they find they'd rather give up than die
So many faces bare So many faces so cold just hold on to me
We can weather the night behind my whiskers girl we can get out of town before we both get too old

and when the engine gives out we won't worry we know how we'll get by

We'll catch the wind with the hairs on my chin and then baby we'll take to the sky we'll say hello to the angels in heaven (sup girl) and then we'll pass heaven by we've got better things to do with our time then shave our faces and die

Don't give up Don't give in Without a beard you know you'll never win

But girl Its time for me to go Where only a man can go My heart is on fire and if I don't feed it fast it'll just burn up and fade I love you girl you've got to know that You'll be so proud of me You'll watch me hop on my pegasus, girl 10000 angels singing for me as I ride my pegasus through the city to the edge of the city and then out of the city and into the fields Fields thick and strong like the beard that I'll grow you'll watch as I ride through the night You'll see, I'll set the night on fire with my burning heart and my glorious man beard And everyone will love me and I'll be a man I'll finally be a man.
