I stood and watched, but I could not believe, I was new to this beauty...why had I been before?. The metallic glowing blue, provoked memories long dormant and the deep red clouds flowed with the elegance of a queen. I was so far, yet the ambiance was so strong and I could feel my soul trying..... Trying to break free from this restricting mortal vest. Soon my spirit flies through the night sky, unrestricted...free, like sand flowing through my fingers. Here I sense real peace, sinking into the clouds, I can forget the old world and despair no more. Sunrise brought a new day and I was drenched in my sun, it's warmth rejuvenated my once withered soul. Here I sense real peace, is this my paradise.
