If you sometimes cry out in the night
And in the darkness you can't see the light
You feel there's nothin' more to do
You think all hope is gone for you

And all you've wanted was peace of mind
Your pursuit of happiness has robbed ya, robbed ya blind
Just remember what you heard before
When your heart of stone becomes an open open open door

There's peace in the presence of the Lord
You will find it there
Take His hand, He will lead ya to the joy
You will find it there

I searched this land from shore to shore
My quest for self it don't mean that much anymore no no
In this path that I have taken

Ooo so many times I've been forsaken

And all my dreams that have been shattered
Have caused me to see what really matters
Just remember what you heard before
When your heart of stone becomes an open door

Ooo there's peace in the presence of the Lord
You will find it, you will find it there
Take His hand, He will lead you to the joy
You will find it there

There's peace, peace in the presence of the Lord
You will find it there
Just take His hand, He will lead you to the joy
Oh you will find it there, you will find it there There's peace, peace in the presence, presence of the Lord
