You see your life in bits and pieces
And all the things you loved are useless
It's all in your mind and all in due time
The sun will shine from up above

You say you feel so alienated
And all the things you were loving, you're hating
You're feeling so numb, you're coming undone
It's time to get back where you're from

Are you ready to fly 'cause this is your life
If it's beating you down, come on, get up

Open your eyes

That's how you know who you are
You know there's gonna come a day when you will know
Come a day when you will know
Come a day when you will know
Come a day when you will know

You see your life is far from over
Stop wasting time on a four leaf clover
And there ain't no use complaining
That's the way it's staying
No time to just give over

Are you ready to fly 'cause this is your life
If it's beating you down, come on, get up
