From the beginning to the end, you people cannot send, our hearts away for good, we live an endless summer. and no matter what you say, well show you up someday, like a pen that needs a page, lets sing a song for summer.

As im sure you know by now, your one step behind the crowd, but that ok boy listen and youll see its all the same. so look into the mirror, and tell me you dont see her, cause shes watching, she watching for me.

this song goes out to those been lost , need an anthem or a cause, these are my last words to you just sing a song for summer and even on those days where nothing goes you way, these are my last words to you just sing a song for summer.

and i know you cant tell now, but one day you will be proud, that one could say so much in one and o so many ways. so hold onto this feeling cause its living in my being and i dont want want to ever let you go.
Chorus.

And i said We made it made it, We made it made it.
