Inside The Memories, inside my head my memories lost i cannot breathe again I just can't fall inside my head, conversations lost don't know where it began Just a broken thought, just a life just a lost knife in the dark i cut on your face fix your fire call for Christ get off your loss fix your fire call for Christ get far away now break the door and break the glass just a life what is happening to this place just a life what is happening to this world just tonight can't we just hold on to us want to fly as wondering how it could be done I can't take you back now that you have had one too many drinks won't this just be neat I think you deserve a place where you will burn a place where you will die a place where you'll forever cry and you'll cry you might die and you'll see what you mean to me
