When you're out there on the highway
While you're driving roll on by Going south between the bridges
While the rivers running dry
And if you can't come home
Please send your mind

Well you've been talking
Where are you going on the train that just rolls
Across the nation past the station
Through the night, as black as coal
And if you can't come home
Please send your mind

Now you're healing on this heartbeat
Are you heading between the sheets?
And the silence from the lamppost
From the corner of the street
And if you can't come home
Please send your mind

Little darling [Incomprehensible]
I'm coming home to you
Little, little darling [Incomprehensible]
