I would tell you to quiet down
If you spoke
If you made me the point of your frown
I melt and sift through the cracks in your floor
To a cheaper view
With an open door
I go out to see people again
I talk and I talk
No one listens
To wake up cold though I've dreamed of heat
Proves just enough
To break me

And every time I cough it's like I taste you
Every time I cough it's like I taste you
(Every time) I cough it's like I taste you
(Every time) I cough it's like I taste you

I would tell you to quiet down
If you spoke
If you made me the point of your frown
I melt and sift through the cracks in your floor
To a cheaper view
With an open door
I go out to see people again
I talk and I talk
No one listens
To wake up cold though I've dreamed of heat
Proves just enough
To break me

And every time I cough it's like I taste you
Every time I cough it's like I taste you
(Every time) I cough it's like I taste you
(Every time) I cough it's like I taste you
