"That Door"

Now that your love is all behind me that door will never open up again
No other heart will ever find me that door will never
open up again
You locked that door shut tight forever that door will never open up again
The key is lost somewhere forever that door will never
open up again

Once in every life the door will open wide
And let a love like I once knew walk inside
And if a careless heart should let that sweet love die
And that door will never open up again
No that door will never open up again
