Put a nickel in the jukebox and let it play
'Cause my heart is loaded with pain
Take the cork from the bottle of the warm red wine
And fill my glass up again

Fill my glass to the brim till it flows over the rim
Like the tears flow in this heart of mine
While I say so long to the dreams that are gone
On account of the warm red wine

Oh, the prison of stone with its cold iron bars
Is no more a prison than mine
I'm a prisoner of drink who will never escape
From the chains of the warm red wine
So fill my glass to the brim
