If you feel like singing a song
And you want other people to sing along
Then just sing what you feel
Don't let anyone say it's wrong

And if you're trying to paint a picture
But you're not sure which colors belong
Just paint what you see
Don't let anyone say it's wrong

And if you're strung out like a kite
Or stung awake in the night
It's alright to be frightened

When there's a light, what light
When there's a light, what light
There's a light, white light
Inside of you

You think you might need somebody
To pick you up when you drag
Don't lose sight of yourself
Don't let anyone change your bag

And if the whole world's singing your songs
And all of your paintings have been hung

Just remember what was yours
Is everyone's from now on

And that's not wrong or right
But you can struggle with it all you like
You'll only get uptight

When there's a light, what light
When there's a light, what light
When there's a light, white light
There's a light, white light

When there's a light, one light
When there's a light, white light
When there's a light, one light

When there's a light, white light

When there's a light, one light
When there's a light, one light
When there's a light, white light
When there's a light, white light
Inside of you

When there's a light, white light
When there's a light, white light
There's a light, white light
When there's a light, one light
