We live in a world with our broken veins
We live in a room with our dying names
We are not the same, no we're not the same
Believing in everything that screams
Ah Yeah, speak up

Go back inside, get sleeping
Go back inside and get believing in anything
Go back inside and get dreaming
Go back inside

We live in a place with our love erased
And we live in a scene that has blurred out everything
We are not the same, no we're not the same
Believing in everything that dreams
Ah Yeah, speak up

Like snow in summer, rain in desert times
We will remember this
The North wind bring forth pain
And makes your kiss just seem like all the rest
Don't look away
Ah Yeah, speak up...
