We all are children of God
We all are images of God

Like a work of art, never twice the same,
each a different face, each one has a name,
each with special gifts, each with special dreams,
each of us was made b'tzelem Elohim.

You don't look like me. I don't talk like you.
We like different games, different music too.
You like to sit and paint. I'm on a soccer team.
But you and I were made b'tzelem Elohim.

We all are children of God. We all are images of God.
Though no two are the same, each has a spark of holy flame.
We're all images of God.

Everyone we meet has a bit of God inside.
What a world we'd have if everybody tried to only see the good in other human beings, remember they were made b'tzelem Elohim.

We all are children of God
