blow in the wind to old steeltown blow in the wind to turn her around blow out the flame and dying name this dirty town won't seem the same
and turn around

i never thought i'd see the day what a crying shame tell me who's to blame mere words of comfort have no meaning for a dying town that won't lie down

there comes a time when you must question were you wrong or right? can you sleep at night?
too many shattered dreams to answer without reason or rhyme where do you draw the line?

it couldn't last forever sign of the times
no pleasure
where can we go together? don't bring me down
