"Something To Die For"

Working for another hour tonight Staring at the wall and let the time just pass me by You might think you know me, but it's all just a face Trying to ignore when people screaming my name (Screaming my name)

Walking by a house with colorful lights
There's a sign, an invitation from the woman inside Talk about your boyfriend, talk about your wife It's just a different way of living your life

When something's right, then something is worth to die
for
When I feel that something is wrong, then something is worth to fight for

Don't say goodbye, just leave an open door
I wanna hear you say, you give me something to die for Searching for another reason to stay Slowly my regrets are fading away

You leave me on my own to find out what's real You say you want your freedom, but it's not how I feel

When something's right, then something is worth to die
for
When I feel that something is wrong, then something is worth to fight for

Don't say goodbye, just leave an open door
I wanna hear you say, you give me something to die for
When I feel that something is right You give me something to die for

When something's right, then something is worth to die
for
When I feel that something is wrong, then something is worth to fight for
When something's right, then something is worth to die
for

worth to fight for

Don't say goodbye, just leave an open door
I wanna hear you say, you give me something to die for
I wanna hear you say, you give me something to die for
I wanna hear you say, you give me something to die for
