You were burning the day with a bag full of shake in your senses
And you elevate Wearing the light like a tiger wears stripes stepping through the shadows of my window pane You're ten kinds of wonderful and you're beautiful and that's great But are you sure that you'll remember your name when the beautiful fades from your face

Come on come on come on and take a step on your own I've carried you across a few worlds I think it's time to be lettin' go
Cause love is what comes when you're comfortable
with being alone
You're starting to show the soul in your bones

You're tying up time with the big city lights you're a bright mind
Go on show me it Living your life like the writers on strike fighting for the right to put some soul in your Ten kinds of possible it's not probable but I'll wait Just to see if you'll remember your name when the probable fades from your fate

Come on come on come on and take a step on your
own
I've carried you across a few worlds I think it's time to
be lettin' go
Cause love is what comes when you're comfortable
with being alone
You're starting to show the soul in your bones

It's only alright if you're living your life like you want to It's only alright if you step on your own like you need to It's only alright just give yourself time, and you'll build yourself a beautiful life It's only alright

But are you sure that you'll remember your name
When the beautiful fades from your face
When the youth that you left's like the skin that you shed
I'll be screaming a series of sounds just to say

Come on come on come on and take a step on your
own
I've carried you across a few worlds, I think it's time to
be lettin' go
Cause love is what comes when you're comfortable
with being alone
You're starting to show you're starting to grow If everybody's jumpin' well don't you think it's somethin' inside your souls I've carried you across a few worlds I think it's time to be lettin' go
