THE CRY OF THE BLUES Äf' SPENCER BOHREN, 1991

Last night I cried, I cried the Blues

(I was) Cryin' for me, cryin' for you

I cried for the sick, I cried for the lonely

I cried for the weak, and I cried for the hungry

I cried for the rich, I cried for the poor

And I cried for all the lonely people

Waitin' outside the door

- Refrain -

The Cry of the Blues

The Cry of the Blues

Listen . . . You'll hear the Cry

Anyone can hear it. Open up your eyes

You'll hear the cry of heartbreak, the cry of love

The cry of the hawk, the cry of the dove

The cry of the baby, the cry of the beast

They're cryin' in the West

They're cryin' in the East

- Refrain -

The Cry of the Blues . . .
