Get into your bed
It's time for sleeping, dreamy head
You know that the world can wait
Forget about the past
Shut your eyes and hope this lasts
And let out all the demons from your face
Don't be afraid to take the lane
That your thoughts choose to follow
Just watch and wait as the landscape
Unfolds into tomorrow

Changes in the streets
You can feel it like a heartbeat
We share it like a common name
Faith slips to the sea
Forget responsibility
Only then will you know what these mean
Try to find a road
That still runs clean and narrow
But all signs argue for the innerstate
With the logic of an arrow

I wish that I could sing
Like the trickster in the breeze
That dances out the worries from your face
But I can only give you back
The things you give to me
And put them in a song
For your escape
When darkness sets
The sun that's left
May cause you to feel alone
Just take that feeling as your shelter
That's the one place
We can all share a home

When darkness sets
The sun that's left
May cause you to feel alone
Just take that feeling as your shelter
That's the one place
We can all share a home
