"Giants"

Their fingers shape the world like a slippery piece of clay
Their clocks are moons they make dark shadows in the day
They move their shoes and the eart she shudders in reply
Their weapons burn through bones cloudy fire in the sky

When the giants walk they rip and tear the ground
Oceans ripple waves are rising all around
One footstep leaving something profound
You can't stop it when the giants walk

They control the world from a castle in the sky
We always follow their lead do we even know why

When the giants walk they rip and tear the ground
Oceans ripple waves are rising all around
One footstep leaving something profound
You can't stop it when the giants walk

You can't stop it
You can't fight it
Can't hide from it
Can't deny it

When the giants walk they rip and tear the ground
Oceans ripple waves are rising all around
One footstep leaving something profound

You can't stop it
You can't fight it
Can't hide from it
When the giants walk
