The doctor says I'm livin' on precious borrowed time with all the time I'm givin' to liquor beer and wine the xrays of my liver look like molded old swiss cheese my heart pumps blood and alcohol through hardened arteries everybody knows me down at the local bar i drink until i can't see and i wonder where you are i guess i let my health go since you quit bein' mine but there's nothing to replace you 'cept liquor beer and wine liquor beer and wine

is a flashing sign i see every single morning i get up it's a buzzing down at me i look up to the heavens for a ray of hope to shine

and there it is in neon

ever since you left me i've lived out of my car parked between the liquor store and uncle bubba's bar booze helps ease the heartache but you're constantly in mind as constant as that buzzing noise of uncle bubba's sign

every dern morning i get up
