TIME HEALS ALL WONDERS

(time heals all wounds = german saying = to get over something

if one waits long enough)

Time heals all wonders

if you tie them up nicely.

Just ligature the spot properly

until you don't feel anything anymore.

You know a fire extincts if you don't poke it for some time.

And you know that you shouldn't poke on old wonders (wounds).

And even the biggest wonder passes by me.

And if it doesn't let you count to three.

And it passes by, it passes by.

You come onto this world to twist your head.

You laugh about dogs and your own toes.

You can hardly walk, but you stop every two meters, and fall on your knees to see yet another wonder.

At the next wonder they're pulling you away.

And the one pulling you counts to three.

And it passes by, it passes by.

And it passes by, it passes by.

Time heals all wonders

after only a few years.

Time heals all wonders

after only a few years.

Time heals all wonders

after only a few years.

Only scars where once were wonders.

When will you ever learn not to twist your head.

You trip over dogs and your own toes.

You can hardly walk and rest every two meters.

And fall on your knees so the wonders can see you.

And the tenth wonder passes by me.
Pray that it stops and count to three.
And it passes by, it passes by.
It passes by, it passes by.
It passes by, it passes by.

Time heals all wonders
after only a few years.
Time heals all wonders
after only a few years.
Time heals all wonders
after only a few years.
Only scars where once were wonders.

Time heals and everyone wonders after all these years,
that nothing stays than a few hours where once were wonders.
Time heals and everyone wonders after all these
years,
that nothing stays than a few scars where once were
wonders.

Time heals all wonders
