As I walk up a street I lift my head up then I face you You look good and you smell sweet it makes it harder to embrace you
If I was back in primary in a playground I would chase you
But I'm not I'm just me though you might be what I'm looking for but

My head won't function properly and my feet don't move in time
And next week I'll forget probably but today you blow my mind

As we talk I go all red and I'm feeling like a schoolkid
All these thoughts that fill my head I bet I'll say something stupid
Just play it cool and keep it calm and remember what your mother said
Now boy just use your charm but all that good advice gets lost somewhere 'cause

My mouth just won't work right today oh my head is full with lines
If only I could find the words to say we could spend a lifetime
Spend a lifetime
