So many stars were out there but none of them did fall
I guess none wanted to carry the burden of it all
A time to cry, so much time to cry, little time to say goodbye
And I would tell you I'll be brave and you'd know that it's a lie
And the days'll turn weeks and the weeks'll turn years and I'll know that you were wrong There's nothing at the rainbows end but just another song

So close and yet so far away is the mask she wears today
It seems the open hand is closing, some things shell never give away
Thelena, wear the crown of golden thorns
Thelena, nail your hands onto your kite

No spotlight on your self-made cross but your eyes come shining through Is desire just temptation or do angels long too?

Don't need wings to be an angel, just the wind to pull you up
No strings, no wings, no songs to sing as we dance into the sun

Thelena, wear the crown of golden thorns
Thelena, nail your hands onto your kite
